2015 Medical Advisory Board Meeting

The Children's Heart Foundation's Medical Advisory Board (MAB), made up of leading pediatric cardiologists, cardiovascular surgeons and basic scientists from across the country, met this past month in Orlando, FL to discuss which of the 52 research proposals submitted to CHF will be funded. Prior to the meeting, the MAB reviewed each of these proposals and scored them based on originality, research plan, significance of research, and relevancy to our mission.

The proposals were recommended at the meeting will now be presented to the CHF National Board at their December meeting, where they will take a final vote on which research projects will be funded.

With your donations, we are able to continue to fund the most promising CHD research. The more money we raise, the more research studies we are able to fund - meaning more advances will be made. Click here to see the research studies CHF has funded in the past.

CHF staff and Chapter Presidents and representatives also had a meeting the same weekend to discuss the current state of CHF and ways to make it the best it

Course. Golf will be followed by cocktails, dinner, and live and silent auctions. Register for the event here.
